

Olight i5T EOS, M1T and M2T Warrior Version Guide

I5Ts

There is some confusion (understandable) concerning the Olight i5T versions and the i5T Turbo versions. I would like to clear this up. Note that what I report may sound contrary to common sense, but it's just how it unfolded.

The very first i5T version was black with the blue stripes. This was before Wuhan, the blue had nothing to do with Wuhan. I'm not sure if it was an official Limited Edition – I usually go by the web pages or if the box says "Limited Edition." The box didn't say this, but they weren't going to make them forever. In any case, the first light to sell was the in-stock standard product with the sexy blue stripes.

After months passed the Wuhan troubles began. Olight announced that they would be making an all-black (no blue stripes) version of the i5T and donating the net or the gross (I forget) to Wuhan. This was a preorder to get the money in and on its way to Wuhan, the all-black i5Ts shipped out a few weeks later. This all black version is the currently stocked product.

So, is the blue-striped version a Limited Edition? No if you need Olight to declare it LE. But since it is an edition that had a limited run, seems LE to me. But the one thing the blue stripe is not – it is not the Wuhan version. The Wuhan fundraiser version was all black.

M1T Raider & M1T Raider Plus

The M1T Raider uses a single CR123A cell.

The M1T Raider Plus uses two cells and is much longer.

The M1T Raider appears to only be offered in Black.

The M1T Raider Plus in Desert Tan is widely available, Olight gave away many with orders.

The M1T Raider Plus in Black seems to be rather rare. I have one and I have seen two others. Archives of Olight's websites sure made it look like they sold the black version, but they are (right now) rare.

M2T Versions

The M2T was sold in two nearly identical versions. Some of late have been calling one the "Euro" version, but they were both sold in the USA at the same time. I have taken to calling one the "Tactical" version (which sold out quickly).

The differences are simple:

Version	Bezel	When first clicked on:
Regular	Flat	Bright first, then a click to dim
Tactical	Crenulated	Dim first, then a click to bright

That's all.
